ACADEMY THEATRE

282 LAFAYETTE AVENUE
Brooklyn 38, N. Y.

PRODUCER

In the language of the theater, the production known as "Secondary Education" will be closing at the end of the school year for the Class of 1957. The same cast will open again in new endeavors in September, although the actors will be in many places. These new productions, called "College," will be exacting and difficult, but they promise to be profitable runs.

To the members of the Class of 1957: I should like to wish you success and happiness as you take on new roles in education. If you remember that sincerity and hard work are essential for success in learning, as well as on the stage, your performances in the future should bring you prosperity and applause in full measure.

EDWARD W. HATHAWAY

DEDICATION

Mr. John Stigi

A cheerful smile, a pleasant word, and a friendly remark are typical of Mr. Stigi's personality.

To you, Mr. Stigi, we, the Class of 1957, dedicate this yearbook as our "Oscar" for your invaluable direction during our performance on the Adelphi stage. We were always able to find you backstage for an additional bit of advice after the show; you helped train the actors and create the scenery. Slowly, the curtain closes after the long run of a most successful play, which you, Mr. Stigi, did much to make memorable.

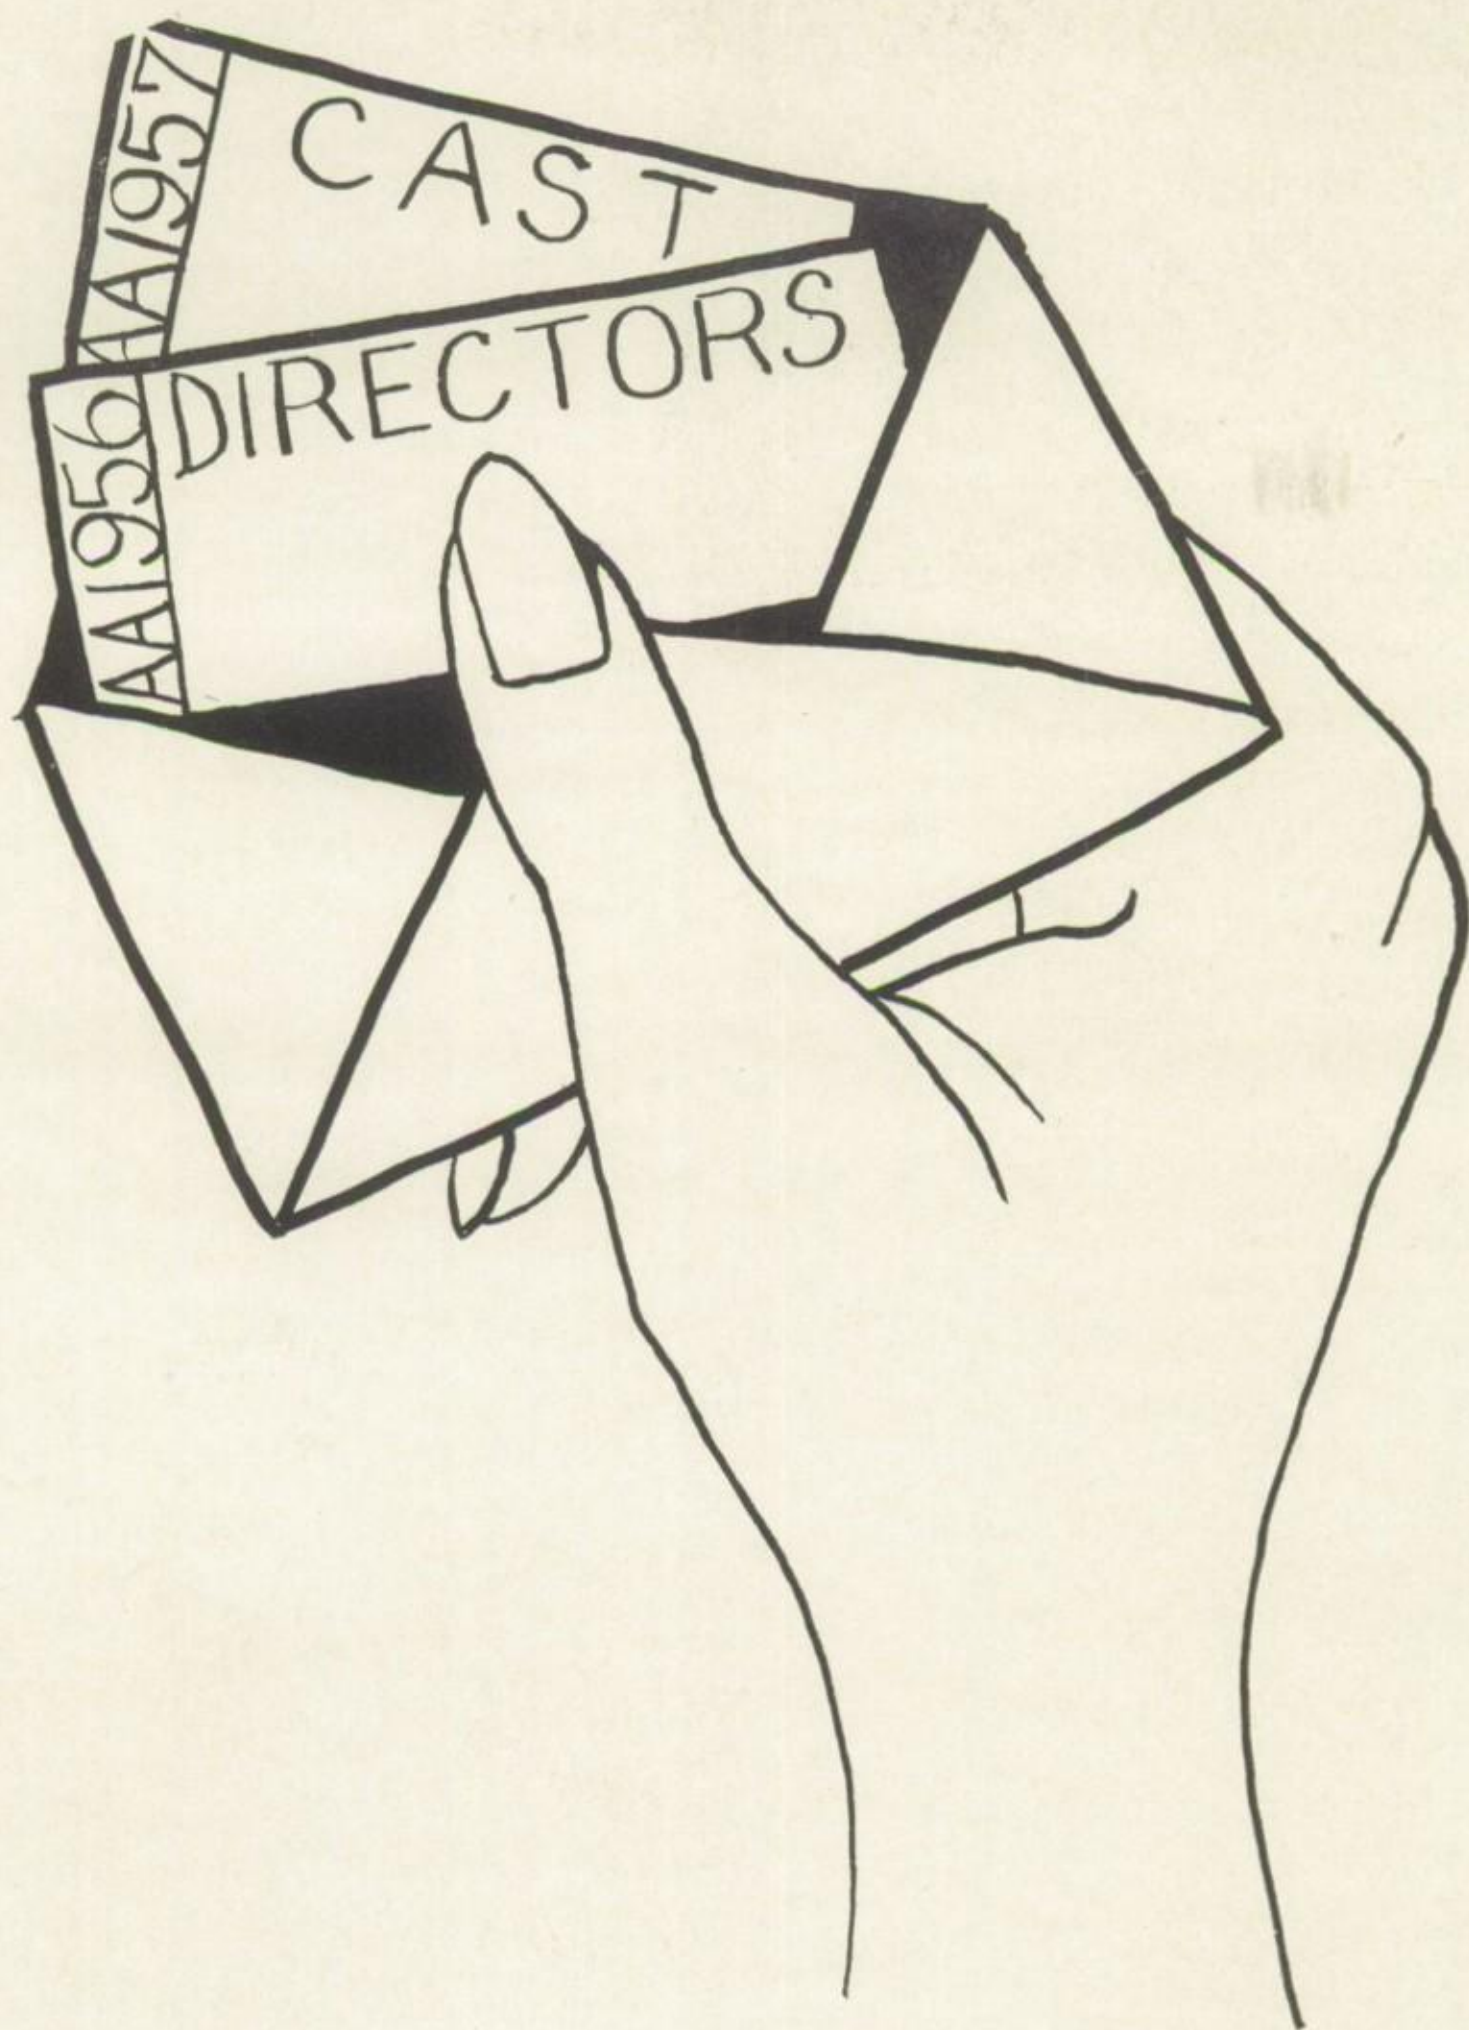

Fred V. Bruch

We might have never learned our parts had it not been for you, Mr. Bruch! Your knowledge, leadership, and, above all, your patience in guiding us so wisely, have led us to this triumph.

Isabel Corcoran

Miss Corcoran, as a director, you contributed your experience and helpful ability. As a friend, you gave your kind, understanding, and friendly advice. We, the Class of 1957, take this opportunity to thank you.

*Best luck to Karl!
Isabel Corcoran*

A black and white photograph of a man in a suit and glasses standing in front of a chalkboard. He is gesturing with his hands as if explaining something. The chalkboard has several mathematical equations written on it, including $x = mt$, $x - 6 = \frac{2x}{5}$, and $5x - 30$.

A black and white photograph of a man from the chest up. He is wearing a dark suit jacket, a light-colored shirt, and a patterned tie. He has dark hair and is wearing thick-rimmed glasses. He is smiling slightly and looking towards the camera. The background is a bar with shelves filled with various bottles.

A black and white photograph of a young woman with curly hair, wearing a light-colored short-sleeved shirt and a dark vest. She is smiling and looking upwards and to the right. She is holding a small object in her right hand.

Bottom Row: Gail Bregman, Penelope Dyk, Ronald Skoller, Richard Allen, Martha Powell, Barry Eden, Paul Berlin, Evelyn Hathaway, Alice Cashman.

Third Row: Keith Senft, Jill Senft, Peter Schuster, Janet Torman, Joel Leon, Penny Schlessner, Mark Pine, Cynthia Slatkin, Philip Shopoff.

Stagehands

The stagehands are represented by the seventh and eighth graders. They are rarely seen in front of the curtain, but they are definitely essential to the success of the play. With this training, it is a certainty that they too will someday fulfill their dreams of the theater.

Lutsky (Secretary), Rosenweig (Student Board), Levine (President), Levin (Treasurer), Torman (Vice-president), Parenti (Student Board).

The curtain drops on the final act.

How well we all remember rehearsing for one of the greatest moments of our lives: The day we first set foot in Adelphi Academy.

As freshmen, and later, as sophomores and juniors, we all faced the same problems, learning through painstaking experience the role that must be played.

But when the curtain opened in 1956, our eyes were glowing. We had passed the test. Nevertheless, as seniors, we found that a star's life isn't easy. There were College Boards to be conquered, and school tests—and more school tests.

What have we gained from all our hard work? In these four years, we have delved into many subjects and taken part in many extra-curricular activities. In short, we have "grown up." Best of all, we have made friendships—friendships we are sure will be everlasting.

The applause is now deafening; it assures us our performance was truly great. Our prize, the valued "Oscar," (our diplomas), is about to be awarded.

Up to now, this is the high point of our lives; only one thing remains to be done: to wish our fellow classmates—and those who will come after us—"the best of luck!"

The Script

The scene was set. The date was September, 1953. The cast was the Class of '57. The plot was our four years at Adelphi Academy.

On a balmy fall day the curtain opened; the first act began. The twenty-four members of the freshman class entered the gates of Adelphi. At first, bewildered by many things, with the assistance of upperclassmen and teachers who were interested in us as individuals, and who helped us to discover just who we were, we soon adjusted. Presently, we all were imbued with the spirit of belonging to Adelphi and participated in all activities. We loved our school even in the midst of our first terrifying finals—when we learned that we weren't quite as intelligent as we had thought. And the curtain closed on Act I. . . .

Soon the curtains parted on Act II. The sophomores were in action! We had matured since our freshman year and realized our responsibilities. There were more of us on the honor roll that year, and our teachers thought we were a class with much ability. We knew we were not going to disappoint them. We gave our first big dance in December and appropriately entitled it "Far Away Places." (Chapel looked like a paradise that night!) And—our final results that year were good enough to give us lasting faith in ourselves!

Intermission again . . . time to look back upon our first two years—and think. . . .

Then suddenly—Act III. Well, we were finally upper classmen. Many of us were heads of the publications by that time and were often seen on Chapel and Forum committees. College loomed—and we worked. But our hard work was followed by gratification for we had achieved satisfactory, highly satisfactory, results. Our Junior Boards were taken in May. What an experience! We began to think seriously about the college we wanted to attend, looking closely at ourselves as individuals—and keeping our fingers crossed.

At last, the climax—Act IV. September '56 launched us on our senior year. Although we had achieved so eminent a status, we didn't feel particularly different. We were the leaders of the school, but still we didn't have any special password to enable us to obtain better grades. But at least we had learned to apply ourselves, and were pleased to find that knowledge could be very interesting. In January and March we conquered the dreaded College Boards. In the course of time, we were all accepted at college—the most important thing to us then.

This play, however, does not end with the fourth act; it will go on for the rest of our lives, for Adelphi taught us many things. Now, as adults, we find ourselves not only concerned with our own happiness, but with sharing our happiness with others. Life, we have all decided, can be made genuinely rewarding; we all have certain goals which we are confident of attaining.

And so the curtain falls—but the play continues . . . continues . . . continues. . . .

Dear Renee
lots of luck to a very dear friend, who has help cheer me up and see me through many situations: You, don't need CHEERLEADERS a cheerleader.
Love, Margi

Led by Captain Bonnie West and Co-captain Renee Estrin, the cheerleaders, Glenna Caddy, Nancy Feinglass, Judy
Hellen, Meryl Bernstein, Ellen Levin, Margi Singer, and Renee Wasserman are seen at all the games cheering their teams on. Their smart costumes and invigorating spirit certainly helped to boost many teams to victory.

So Renee
really a great kid.
Stay the way you are. a fellow cheerleader with a lot of pep & energy. See you next year.
Love,
Margi

EXTENSION SOCIETY

Each year the Extension Society, with Mrs. Poole as its advisor, sponsors a bazaar. Different booths are erected where one can purchase various types of merchandise donated for the most part by a surprisingly large number of generous students. Many girls take part in this activity and the proceeds are donated to the Willoughby House Settlement.

BAND

Under the guidance of Mr. Reep, these talented few can be heard every morning practicing on their instruments. Adelphi can certainly be very proud of these future Benny Goodmans and Ray Anthonys.

DRAMATICS

Junior Dramatics organized by Mrs. Vennema and Senior Dramatics, advised by Mr. Dameron, have succeeded in putting on fine productions. These clubs have proved a haven for Adelphi's budding Thespians. Both teachers reported future Garbos and, naturally, Red Sheltons too—but the members do have much fun.

GLEE CLUB

We owe many thanks to Mrs. Moore for the fine, choral work which she has inspired this year. In particular, we shall all remember the operetta she directed, and the fine group singing we were often privileged to hear.

The Glee Club, offering selections from Bach to Gershwin has brightened many Chapel mornings during the year.

MATH CLUB

Under the leadership of Mr. Blatchley, the Math Club has proven itself to be a fertile "plane" for our budding numerical wizards. Mr. Blatchley helps to make this club an enjoyable class for those who have that rare gift . . . a mathematical brain.

CHAPEL PROGRAM

Each school day—except Tuesday, which is given over to the Forum Club—begins with these few but valuable minutes spent in Chapel. Mr. Hathaway, Mr. Bruch, and occasionally a teacher or a student, talk to the assembled school about something of ethical importance.

GIRLS ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

This association is commonly called the G.A.A. Every girl, upon entering the high school automatically becomes a member. Under the able supervision of Mrs. Coscia, the G.A.A. has developed keen competition in various sports among our female athletes.

ART CLUB

The Art Club, under the guidance of Miss Kneeland, has brought to the surface the creative talent of many Adelphians. Miss Kneeland offers many different materials for her pupils to experiment with. As evidence of this, we call your attention to the many signs which brighten up the halls.

JOURNALISM CLUB

This year an addition has been made to the many clubs at Adelphi. It is the journalism club which is run by Mr. Bernard Iser. The purpose of this club is to instruct all staff members of the Brown and Gold in the art of journalism.

SHOP

Boys who are interested in the art of woodworking are able to display this talent under the friendly guidance of Mr. Stigi. In fact, woodworking has grown into a really meaningful activity for several boys and much progress has been made.

VARSITY CLUB

The Varsity Club is a new organization which Adelphi will certainly continue as long as the students support it. Its membership consists of a select few who are chosen because of their all-round school spirit and can be found at all school activities throughout the year.

FORUM CLUB

On alternate Tuesday mornings, the Junior and Senior Forum Clubs, advised respectively by Mr. Walker and Mr. Bruch, discuss topics of current political and social interest. When the speakers have finished their presentation, the members of the student body are given the opportunity to ask them questions and state their own opinions. In such a way, students have gained or increased knowledge of various subjects of the day—painlessly!

CUM LAUDE

When a student is admitted to this organization, it is the highest recognition Adelphi can bestow upon a student for scholastic achievement. This year, Barbara Flug, Pat Livingston, Arnold Pickman and Fredi Schwab were honored by being admitted into Cum Laude last fall.

MECHANICAL DRAWING

This fascinating subject is a must for all future engineers and artists. Under the skilled direction of Miss Kneeland, students learn the meaning and importance of perspective and how to apply logic to difficult problems.

THE ADELPHIC

Our yearbook, The Adelphic, is the written and pictorial record of the school year. Although it is planned and published by the senior class, its pages contain pictures of every grade and of all the activities which make up "Adelphi." Probably because it puts so many memories of his high school days into permanent form, every Adelphian—and especially every senior—considers the arrival of the yearbook one of the year's "big days."

THE BROWN AND GOLD

The Brown and Gold is the school newspaper. Published every three weeks, it is packed with school news—sports, social activities and current events. It is interesting and informative—one of Adelphi's most worthwhile extra-curricular activities.

THE ADELPHIAN

The Adelphian is the school's literary magazine. A publication which has often won prizes in the national contest annually sponsored by Columbia University, it offers an opportunity for those who are interested in writing or art to see their stories, poems, essays, and drawings in print.

STUDENT BOARD

The Student Board is the advisory council of Adelphi. Once every three weeks, two representatives from each grade, from the seventh through the twelfth, plus representatives of the three publications, meet to discuss problems pertinent to the student body.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

After winning fifteen out of twenty-two fast-moving contests, the Adelphi Quintet wound up in third place in the Ivy League. The big starting five included Bob Rosbruch, Steve Genatt, Larry Berkowitz, Neil Greenfield, and "Big" Bob Ganley. The boys and Coach Kesslin deserve much credit for compiling so fine a record.

*To Rene
a lovely specimen

*To Rene
I'll see you on next year

Woody*

JUNIOR VARSITY BASKETBALL

The Junior Varsity consisted of "eager beavers" who hope to eventually become a part of the Senior Varsity Team. Naturally, they played a different schedule from the senior group. Since they worked hard and played hard too, we can say with real heartiness, "Good work! . . . We know you'll make the Varsity next year."

FOOTBALL

Although the 1956 season marked the end of football at Adelphi, the memories of many thrilling games will remain. Under the direction of Coach Andy Kuchinsky, our players almost invariably gave an excellent account of themselves in spite of having to face the tremendous odds created by the small enrollment in our school. But perhaps the chief importance of the sport lay in the fact that the boys were taught by it to value courage and a sense of fair play.

BASEBALL

With several of last year's "veterans" plus a fine crop of "rookies," the '57 baseball season proved to be a good one.

At press time, the final standings of the Ivy League were not available; however, at the pace we were going, Adelphi could not help but finish high in the standing.

*To Renee
I mean this in all sincerity you are really one of the nicest girls I had the pleasure of meeting in Adelphi's social circle*

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The avid female athletes of Adelphi have striven to make the basketball team a winning one. Even more important, each game that the girls have played against the different schools has been characterized by both good sportsmanship and the feeling of exhilaration.

FIELD HOCKEY

The sound of a hard hit puck is heard across the hockey field. Here come the Adelphi girls, hockey sticks in hand, darting valiantly across the field—hurrah!—another goal has been made. When the girls are not participating in a game, they are practicing diligently in Prospect Park.

VOLLEYBALL

A shout resounds through the gym—one of our able Adelphi girls has hit the ball over the net. This sport enables the girls who are chosen for the team to demonstrate their athletic ability. Intramural games are played and the victorious class is pronounced champion for the year.

Acknowledgments

The theater is a vast medium with many plays continuously presented. Our play, the performance put on by the Class of '57, however, has just as far-reaching effects as the productions of the entire world of the theater.

In 1953 we were just stagehands, a little like background scenery. Now, in 1957, we are the stars.

As stars, we gratefully acknowledge all the help rendered to us by our Stage Manager, Mr. Jerry Gladstein, of Eastern Press, who cheerfully helped us through many dress rehearsals.
